

Figure 1. Attitude to national and ethnic diversity. Selected EU-countries. 2016. Percent.

Note: Respondents have been asked the following question: "Do you think that an increasing number of people from different races, ethnicities and nationalities on average makes your country a better place to live, is of no importance or makes it a worse place to live?" The answer category "Do not know" is not included, which is why not all columns add up to 100 percent.

Source: Pew Research Center. "Global Attitudes Survey". 2016.